Role in Scientific Research and Development Management

Nominee Name:

Please describe your exact role in scientific research and development management or regulatory science that will help the committee understand your contributions to neuropsychopharmacology based research by addressing the following questions:

1. Describe your exact role in providing leadership and direction for programs of national or international scope as evidenced by the following:

    a. Establishes major goals and objectives for scientific research programs
    b. Initiates pioneering programs
    c. Serves as an expert and consultant in both a defined area of science and in scientific research and development management

2. Give examples of your role in the formulation and communication of national or international program objectives as evidenced by the following:

    a. Serves as an expert on a particular project which has resulted in tangible products, such as treatments or biomarkers, or extended the indication of an already developed product or treatment
    b. Serves as a spokesperson concerning scientific research and development direction for the scientific community
    c. Provides advice, consultation and direction which is recognized as authoritative by leaders in the scientific community