Job Overview

The College of Medicine, Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Neuroscience is recruiting for a Program Director for our Addiction Psychiatry fellowship program. This individual will join the Addiction Sciences Division which includes a robust set of clinical services (including outpatient, intensive outpatient, methadone, perinatal, and hospital consult services), research activities (centered around the Ohio Valley NIDA Clinical Trials Network), and educational activities that support and enhance the Addiction Psychiatry fellowship.

The department is dedicated to high quality medical student and resident education, excellence in patient care and advancing the science in psychiatry and behavioral neurosciences through clinical trials and ongoing collaborative research. Our department supports clinical care and career development in multiple disciplines, including general psychiatry, addiction psychiatry, forensic psychiatry, consultation-liaison psychiatry, geriatric psychiatry, and neuromodulation including electroconvulsive therapy and transcranial magnetic stimulation.

Salaries are competitive with academic medical centers in the Midwest. Signing and relocation bonuses are available. The benefits through the University of Cincinnati are superb and include comprehensive health and dental insurance, excellent retirement packages, and tuition remission for undergraduate and graduate studies for self and dependents.
